

I am vehemently opposed to your proposed weakening of the Indiana Telephone Privacy Law. As a private individual, I cannot tolerate the invasion of what little privacy I am afforded - especially in my home. Telemarketers RAPE me and my family of our private family time. They invade what little time we do have together after our long hours of work - 7 DAYS A WEEK!!!!!!!!!!!!!! The aggressive and overbearing intrusions into my private life by unsolicited vendors is an affront to not only me as tax paying individual - but also to our society. Free enterprise being what it is, it should not be empowered to invade the lives of those that do not desire the innumerable intrusions to "sell" items and services that we would not ever even consider purchasing in the first place.

Please.....do not too, violate my privacy but loosening the current restrictions on telephone privacy and telemarketing. I and my family vehemently oppose any lossening or modifications of the telephone privacy laws currently in effect.

Sincerely

Rick Hess/Middlebury IN
